Revels 2024

Master Alastair Hodge
Master of Revels aka 'Prince of Misrule'

Sir Christopher Hatton
(1540-1591) by C Ketel.
Inn's Collection

Though the pandemic and Project Pegasus created a hiatus in our revelling in recent years, apart from a series of 'Master H meets...' and the hugely compelling 'Dial Medicine for Murder', I am delighted to announce our new plans for Revels devised with the help of Master Stephen Simblet and Oscar Davies (Bar Liaison Committee), modern day 'Princes of Misrule' (to borrow the 15th century title given to those appointed by each Inn to lead Revels).

To reinvigorate the tradition of Revels, on 23 April we will begin the first of two or three annual film nights focusing on films with legal themes and on 17 July, we will be hosting 'A Night at the Musicals'. I hope that as many of you as possible will get involved, either by attending these events or by performing a number from your favourite musical.

Historically, Revels were regarded as a period of extravagant entertainment and wild partying, though the events generally followed a set, traditional sequence. Members of the Inn who refused to become involved in the events were fined as a punishment – beware!

the Musicals'
17 JULY

The nature of the Revels often varied depending on the rank of the member. The young students were noted to have taken part in energetic and intimate dances with women, such as the galliard, and exuberant singing, whilst the more senior Benchers had more formal, traditional dances and sang psalms. Other entertainments included feasts and mock trials.

The Revels attracted an audience of well-connected people of high rank. Of note, Queen Elizabeth I attended one Revels session at The Inner Temple where she noted the dancing ability of Christopher Hatton, whom she later appointed Lord Chancellor of England.

That said, the quality of Revels seems to have declined in the 17th century and into the early 18th century. Indeed, the last are thought to have been those held in 1733.

However, the Revels were revived at the Inns in the mid-20th century by Master Hubert Monroe (Middle Temple Bencher) and have since provided seasonal entertainment in the form of sketches, songs and jokes.

In more recent times, The Inner Temple enjoyed a very lucrative period of Revels under the guidance of Master Tom Shields, and my immediate predecessor, Master Tom Kinninmont, did much to build on that foundation.

Though we cannot promise the extravaganzas of Robert Dudley, 1st Earl of Leicester, and (you'll be pleased to know) we have no powers to levy fines for not taking part, we hope you will join in the fun. If any member of the Inn, whether Bencher, Member of Hall, Pupil or Student, is interested in taking part in a 'Night at the Musicals', please register your interest by emailing revels@innertemple.org.uk.

Sub-Treasurers of The Inner Temple

Ever wondered why Inner Temple sticks to the title 'Sub-Treasurer', when all the other Inns have opted for 'Under Treasurer'. Why was a traditionally militarised zone demilitarised? Were relationships between Sub-Treasurers and their Treasurers always trouble-free? The Sub-Treasurer, Greg Dorey CVO, looks back at his predecessors over the centuries and attempts to answer some of these questions.

Education & Training

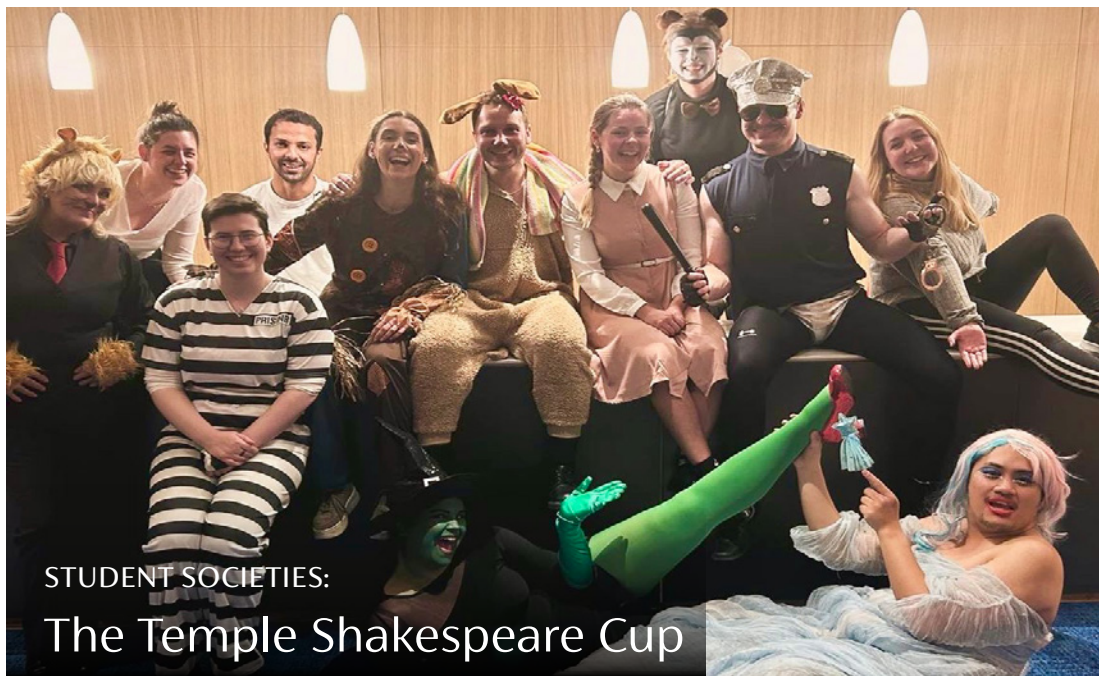

Inner Temple eLearning Hub

In 2023, the Education and Training Department embarked on a collaborative project with The Inns of Court College of Advocacy (ICCA) to build a platform for the Inn to host its online educational courses and content. The project entailed the creation of an entirely bespoke Virtual Learning Environment for the Inn, as well as the migration of existing content from different platforms. Work on building the new platform was completed in December 2023, and The Inner Temple eLearning Hub was launched in January 2024.

The first course to go live on the new eLearning Hub was the Inn's Equality, Diversity and Inclusion training course.

Which, prior to its relaunch, was reviewed and refreshed and is now being rolled out to selected members. The eLearning Hub will constantly evolve and grow with the development and addition of new courses and content over the coming years. In March 2024, the Advocacy and Ethics Courses for New Practitioners will be launched, and the Pupils Advocacy Course will follow in September 2024.

We are excited to grow the content that will be hosted on the eLearning hub and are certain that it will become an invaluable resource for all members, from students on their journey to the Bar to practising barristers.

Thank you to everyone who went to see the annual Panto, written and directed by The Inner Temple Drama Society. If you are looking forward to their next installment, The Temple Shakespeare Cup (a.k.a. 'The Shake Off') will take place on Tuesday 21 May 2024 in Inner Temple Hall.

Middle Temple vs The Inner Temple – Each Inn will put on an hour performance, in the hope of winning over the star-studded judging panel who will present a winner at the end of the evening.

Tickets are available to book via The Inner Temple website. The event is open to members of all four Inns and their guests.

Intervarsity Weekend

The Intersvarsity Debating and Mooting competitions took place on Saturday 3 and Sunday 4 February. The Inner Temple Debating Society and The Inner Temple Mooting Society put on a spectacular event.

Intersvarsity Debate Winners:

Middle Temple Team 1
(Lucy Bleichroeder and Conor Scott)

Intersvarsity Debate Runners up:

Lincoln's Inn Team 1
(Natalia Catechis and John Broomfield)

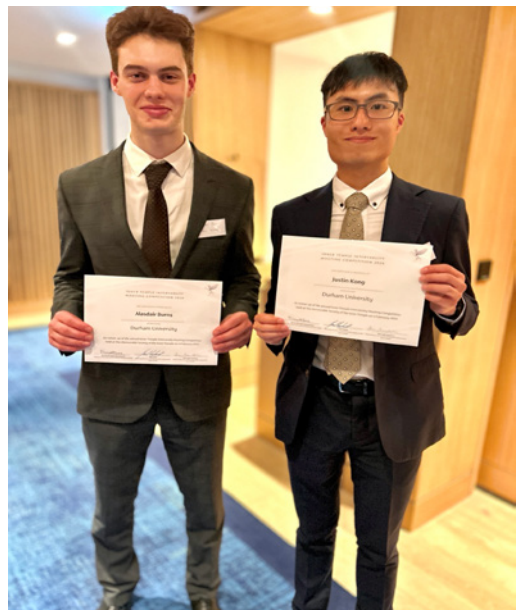

Intersvarsity Moot Winners:

University of Oxford
(Shivanii Arun and Christopher McHugh)

Intersvarsity Moot Runners up:

Durham University
(Alasdair Burns and Justin Kong)

We would like to thank all our volunteers who gave up their weekend to support the societies. We would also like to give special thanks to the Harrison family for attending the IV Debate and for their continued support; 6 Pump Court for donating the runners up prize for the IV Debate; and Cambridge University Press who donated the winning prize for the IV Moot.

Burns Night

The annual Burns Night festivities took place in January, with just under 100 attendees and entertainment provided by Lochnager Ceilidh Band and bagpiper, Iona Scotson. The guests had a wonderful night, with everyone having a go at the ceilidh. A few people who had never attended a Burns Night celebration really enjoyed it, loved meeting other members of the Inn, and will be encouraging more people to come along next year. ITSA's Burns Night usually takes place the week of Burns Night, so please keep an eye out for the 2025 ticket release.

Mooting Success

Michelle Providence, Vita Sinclair, Grace Okarfor and Zoe Adam competed in the Worshipful Company of Arbitrators 9th UK Mediation Skills Competition in January. Zoe was awarded a prize for the Best Role Play by Participant.

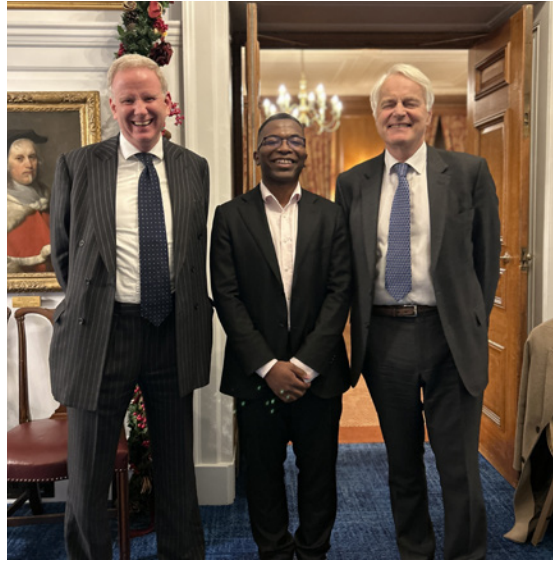

Charlotte Gamble, Aelx Kane, Nicole Terry and Laura Hildt took part in the grand final of the 2024 Lawson Moot, sponsored by 6KBW and judged by Master Treasurer, Lord Reed of Allermuir, and Master Hill. Laura Hildt did a fantastic job and won the Lawson Cup. Laura and Nicole will go on to compete against the winners of the 2024 English Speaking Union-Essex Court Chambers National Mooting Competition in the Magna Carta Moot in November.

ITSA ROUND UP

Essay Competition

ITSA have been very busy over the past few months. The winner of the first ITSA Essay Competition prize was announced. Richard Matheson won first place, with an essay exploring the topic, Is the Cab Rank Rule now redundant at the Self-employed Bar? You can read Richard's essay in the next edition of The Inner Temple Yearbook. Close behind was Joseph Maggs, and the runners up were Emma Townend, Sam Killcross and Yousif Shami. The essay quality was very high, six essays received an average mark of 80 out of 100 or over. Three essays received an individual mark of 90 or more from at least one marker. ITSA intend to run the competition during the Michaelmas Term again this year so look out for it!

Alexander Cameron KC Criminal Mock Trial Competition

The final of the Alexander Cameron KC Criminal Mock Trial Competition took place on 5 January 2024 at the Old Bailey. Congratulations to Casey-Mae Kellett, who did a phenomenal job winning the first year of the competition, judged by HHJ Anthony Leonard. Neel Rokad also did an amazing job, as the runner up who was given the brief a mere two hours before the event and only had 40 minutes of preparation time. We would also like to congratulate third place prize winner, Mary Rizk.

The Inn would like to thank all the volunteers who judged each round, played a witness, or acted as timekeeper; Alejandra Llorente Tascon, who wrote the case papers for each round of the competition; as well as 5KBW, 3RB and the Cameron family for supporting the event.

Alliums

Each year, I excitedly await the blooming purple 'fireworks' of Alliums. I feel that they create the first dramatic explosion of colour and texture, with a noticeable change to the height of the borders.

Alliums have long been a decorative feature at The Inner Temple Garden, adding a fun element with their drumsticks of various sizes, shapes and tones, as well as providing early season food sources for pollinators. I love alliums for their ability to take centre stage effortlessly in the borders, while at the same time interconnecting a border, weaving between the emerging herbaceous plants.

Allium 'Purple Rain' in the Highborder

Alliums in the Longborder

Allium 'Purple Rain', one of the first to flower

Allium siculum, Bell-shaped flowers

Using Alliums in the Garden

Most Allium species are found in the summer baked plains of Turkey, the Middle East, and Central Asia, which helps explain their preference for a sunny site and well-drained soil.

Hardy and reliable, the majority of the alliums will thrive year after year. When clumps become too congested, they can simply be dug up, separated and replanted. Our favourites for repeating without lifting include: 'Purple Rain', 'Summer Drummer' and 'Universe'. The showy decorative flowers heads, which are clusters of individual florets, are followed by long-lasting attractive seedheads, that can also be used in dried flower arrangements. My favourite type for drying is Allium christophii.

Allium 'Summer Drummer', one of the tallest alliums

With our ethos of working towards sustainable principles, alliums are appreciated for reliably repeating with low water requirements and little green waste output at the end of their growing season; in addition to their stunning flowers providing nectar for a host of pollinators.

Open Days

Our upcoming weekend garden open days on 25 May and 9 June provide the perfect occasions to see the alliums in the garden. Come and find out more about all the different varieties we grow at The Inner Temple.

Julius Drake, piano

Thursday 18 April, 7pm
Middle Temple Hall

From the exoticism of Ravel's Shéhérazade through the wit, elegance and emotional depth of Poulenc, to cabaret, jazz, and tango, one of Europe's rising stars joins Julius Drake in a wonderfully eclectic selection of 20th century song. The programme is a real showcase of Fanyo's extraordinary gift as a storyteller. We are thrilled to welcome one of most promising singers of her generation, who is making a mark on both the opera world and in concert halls.

Geoffrey Paterson, conductor

Monday 20 May, 8pm
Inner Temple Hall

A glorious programme fit for one of London's finest Georgian-style halls. From the drama of Don Giovanni, through the joy of Haydn's ever-popular Trumpet Concerto, this gala concert culminates in the majesty of the Jupiter Symphony. We welcome one of London's most cherished chamber orchestras back to Inner Temple for their ongoing journey through Mozart's last three symphonies in this place. They are joined by "eloquent trumpet soloist" (The Times), Matilda Lloyd, who has captivated audiences across Europe with her artistry, communication, and musicality.

Maxine is a member of the Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development and held HR management roles at The Royal British Legion (2007 to 2016) and at the British Medical Association (2017 to 2020) before working more recently at ThreeCs and the Women's Aid Federation of England.

DAVID BARTLETT

After 15 years and 30 budget rounds, our Collector David Bartlett has taken a well-earned retirement. We are grateful for all he has done for Inner Temple in this time – despite a tumultuous few years with the pandemic and Project Pegasus, he leaves us in very sound financial shape. We wish him all the best for the future – running, hiking and doing good works in his community.

JANE WHITTAKER

Jane has joined as Collector. She comes to us from the British Museum, where she was Director of Resources. Before that she worked at the National Gallery, after qualifying as an accountant with EY.

GEORGETA FILIMON

We welcome Georgeta to the team as our new Senior Pastry Chef. With a distinguished background, including training at the Culinary Art Institute Le Cordon Bleu in London, and previous experience at The Swan at the Globe, Georgeta brings a wealth of expertise and creativity to our kitchen.

NICK SUTTON-SMITH

Nick joins us as Events Manager, contributing to Inn events and commercial ventures. With a dynamic career starting as a university bartender, he brings a wealth of experience in hotel events operations after transitioning from Birmingham to London in late 2023.

Long Service

Many congratulations to members of staff who have completed significant periods of employment at the Inn.
